MINING NOTES.

A Fine Cameron Pump Has Recently Been Installed By the Keystone Mining Company.

Mr. Rush Stevenson has uncovered a good vein of lead and fluor spar near Mexico.

Kustawa capitalists are still prospecting for mineral on east side of the Hodge mines.

Mr. Wm. Miller of Louisville was in the city Monday, looking after the several mines he has in the district.

The Cullen mines near Salem is working right strong and expects to do a big amount of mining the coming summer. The Morning Star is working every day.

There will be a shaft started near Princeton this spring by some Paducah parties, for the purpose of mining lead and zinc.

The Kentucky Flour Spar company is running their mill every day and are wishing the roads to get in condition to have more grinding spar hauled in.

Harry Watkins sold a three-fourths interest in some daisy property which he owned in Tennessee. The mines will be opened up and put in operation soon.

The Kentucky Flour Spar company are sinking a new shaft at the Hodge mines. They also mean to resume work at the Brown mine just as soon as the roads get in position to permit hauling.

The new big No. 7, Cameron pump which is being installed at the Keystone Mining company's property, is one of the best pumps in this district, and will be capable of taking care of and handling all the water the mines produce. Mr. Hopewell, the General Manager, believes in doing things right, and in having the best kind of machinery, and will save lots of money by doing so. This mine has a 15 foot vein of lead and fluor spar, and is on the same vein as the Ada-Florence which has a 10 foot vein of lead and fluor spar, and on the same vein as the Mary Belle, where the vein runs from 10 to 20 feet, with 25 per cent. lead, it is also on the same vein that was struck and uncovered about two weeks ago in Panther hollow, on the Forty-Six Acres of mineral land joining the Eclipse Mining company's property. The Eclipse Mining Co. are also working this same vein which was first opened at Klondike. The Kentucky Flour Spar company. This is known to be the best lead and fluor spar vein for a depth of from fifty to one hundred feet in Western Kentucky. But at various depths the fluor spar is inclined to give out, and coarse grained zinc takes its place, as is shown at the shaft of the Eclipse; we presume that the mine owners have no objection to this change. There is also another vein of lead and fluor spar running parallel to this one from 50 to 100 feet on the east side, and both can be worked practically and to advantage through one shaft on either vein by cross-cutting to the other, making mining property where these two veins run through very valuable.

Mrs. Bennett Entertains.

Mrs. A. J. Bennett entertained in honor of the visiting ladies at her tasty and hospitable home during the afternoon of the 29th, ult. Music, games and social converse whiled the hours rapidly away. A sumptuous lunch was served in the dining room, consisting of ham, pickles, coffee, salad, olives, candies, nuts, cake and punch. Those present: Mrs. Gordon of Madisonville; Mrs. Gray, of Smithland; Mrs. Ramey, of New Jersey; Mrs. Cardin, of View; Mrs. Sayre, Mrs. Hayward, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Nunn, Mrs. Gugenheim, and others.

Louise Gilbert Hurt.

L. E. Gilbert, while training at the new armory, slipped on a piece of carbon from an electric lamp fell and broke his elbow. We are very sorry of the accident and hope he will recover soon. Gilbert is considered one of the best amateur athletes that has ever toed the line in Louisville. He said they would have to run some to take the prize, anyway.—The Athlete.

BLACKFORD

Is Now the Trading Center for Large Portions of Webster, Union and Crittenden Counties

The thrifty town of Blackford just across the Tradewater in Webster county, is a much larger trading center than one would suppose who is not well acquainted with the facts.

Crowell, Nunn & Co., of that place have one of the largest stocks of hardware and furniture in this part of the state, and buying as they do in large quantities they are in a position to offer their patrons exceptionally good values. This firm composed of Messrs W. D. Crowell, C. E. Nunn, G. H. Nunn and J. M. Chandler are all business men of experience, who will extend to you all due courtesy as they satisfy your business wants.

This firm are also proprietors of the Blackford Roller Mills, and are large dealers in wheat and other grain. "Perfection," best patent, and "White Dove," straight grade, are their leading brands of flour and you never bought better.

We call the attention of the reader to their advertisement in this issue of the Press.

ZED A. BENNETT

Marion's Popular Life Insurance Agent is Honored With Gold Medal by His Company.

Our friend Zed A. Bennett, of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Boston, Mass., won the gold medal in the contest in honor of the 82nd birthday of President Stevens of that company. From the news notes of the Kentucky agency we clip the following:

The handsome gold medal offered by us to the agent writing the largest amount of business during five days on account of President Stevens' 82nd Birthday Anniversary, March 6, and paid for on an annual basis on or before April 1st, was awarded Mr. Zed A. Bennett, of Marion, Ky., he having written $12,000, $10,000 being paid for.

Eleven applications written and examined in five days the result of his own personal work, and without the assistance of any of our Agency Supervisors is something to be proud of.

Zed, we congratulate you, and hope that you will now go after some more of the prize money.

Protracted Meeting.

The Methodists and Cumberland Presbyterians will hold a joint protracted meeting at the Cumberland Presbyterian church beginning next Sunday evening. Wm. Yates and wife, the noted singers, will lead the choir.

Buy Your Sunday Dinner

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church cordially invite you to attend their Saturday sales and buy your Sunday dinners. Consists of light bread, cakes, pies, pudding, salads, meats, and in fact everything good to eat. Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at Nunn & Tucker's furniture store.

Five New Lights Up

Notwithstanding the terrific weather the Marion Electric Light & Ice Co. had installed up to Monday night five of the new are lights besides changing 23 new ones to where old ones were previously. With a continuance of the nice weather the remaining five will be installed this week.

Sutherland—Withers

S. F. Sutherland of Sturgis Ky, and Miss Truman Withers a niece of Rev. Withers and daughter of Gooch Withers of Webster co, were married at the Hotel Crittenden Wednesday afternoon by Rev. T. A. Conway; the happy couple left on the afternoon train for their home in Sturgis.

Hunter Badly Hurt.

Mount Vernon, Ind., March 30.--Lee Summers, a young man of Point township, was seriously injured early this morning while shooting some ducks, in the Ohio bottoms, and having the gun overcharged with smokeless powder the barrel exploded, tearing away a portion of his right and left arms, and stunning him by the recoil.

Summers was brought to this city and given medical attention.

Dr. Doerr says the injuries are serious but may not prove fatal.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Of the Late Rev. Merrill H. Utley, One of the Oldest and Best Known Ministers of this Section

HAD REACHED THE AGE OF 84 YEARS.

About 1 o'clock in the morning of February 9, 1906, in his humble cottage but a few yards from the Crenshaw crossing on the Electric Belt railway, in Williamson county, Ill., at the advanced age of 84 years, less six days, there passed from this to a better and immortal life one of the most remarkable personages in the great Mississippi valley, Reverend Merrill H. Utley.

He was born in Muhlenburg county, Ky., on a farm about twelve miles southeast of Greenville, the county seat, on the 15th of February, 1822, the seventh son of Jacob Utley, a wealthy farmer of Muhlenburg county, and grew to manhood on that farm.

His mother's maiden name was Holt.

On the 21st day of December 1841 he was married to Miss Sarah H. McCown, of the same county, who was born on the 11th of March, 1825. They began married life early, he at the age of 19 years and 10 months and she at the age of 16 years and 9 months. They lived together for 65 years, 1 month and 19 days. She still survives him, though in great decrepitude from the burden of nearly 81 years.

In 1847 he joined the Masonic fraternity, of which he remained a member in good standing the remainder of his life and was buried with Masonic ceremonies.

But it was his long, constant, faithful, laborious and brilliantly successful work in the ministry which made him one of the most remarkable men of his day and generation.

There seems to be some conflict of memory concerning the date of his ordination to the ministry. One statement puts it that he was converted on the 10th of August, 1846, and on the next day joined the Missionary Baptist church, at Hazel creek, in Muhlenburg county. That in September following he was licensed to preach, and in November following was ordained to the full work of the ministry, and on the same day was called to the pastorate of Hazel creek church, which he served continuously for four years. That during his residence in Muhlenburg county, he served as pastor of many other churches, among them being Bethel, Ebenezer, Oak Grove and Salem.

The other statement shows that he began preaching in 1850; that he was ordained to the full work of the ministry at Cave Spring church, on the 20th of June, 1851, Elders Wm. D. Pannell and Calvin Meacham officiating at the ordination.

This difference is immaterial and only affects the time, the number of years, that Father Utley labored in the ministry, in the one case showing an active service of more than forty years and in the other about forty-five years. In either case it was a long and faithful service.

After his ordination he devoted his entire time and talents to the work of the ministry, for which he was so pre-eminently qualified, both by nature and by grace. He continued to reside in Muhlenburg county until 1859. In that year by special arrangement with Highland, Union, town and Little Bethel churches, in Union county, he removed to that county and labored as missionary for the Little Bethel Association for many years.

In that time he organized a number of churches, and served also as pastor of many more.

In October, 1868, after a residence of some nine years in Union county, he removed to Salem, in Livingston county, Ky. There he resided 35 years. During a part of the time he labored as a missionary and organized a number of churches, but labored much longer and more abundantly as pastor of a still larger

KENTUCKY BANK INCREASES CAPITAL.

A. E. ORR

The Home Deposit Bank of Central City, Ky., has recently increased its capital from $15,000 to $25,000, which is fully paid in, and have filed the necessary papers with the comptroller to convert into a national institution to be known as the First National Bank of Central City. The last statement issued before the increase in capital shows the following healthy condition: Resources—Loans and discounts, $60,596; furniture and fixtures, $1,759; cash in national banks, $12,962; cash in vaults, $4,711. Liabilities, Capital, $15,000; surplus fund, $976; dividend No. 2, $1,500; deposits, $62,552.

A. E. Orr, the popular cashier of the institution, is a thorough Kentuckian and a hustling, successful banker. He was born October 28, 1861, in Crittenden county, Kentucky, and received his early education in the county schools in which he afterwards served as teacher. He attended the M. & F. Academy at Providence, Ky., and then took a commercial course in the Kentucky University at Lexington. From 1887 to 1900 he was a book-keeper at Evansville, Ind., when he began work in a bank at Central City. Two years later he organized the Home Deposit Bank and was made its cashier, a position he now holds. Associated with him in the banking business are W. R. McDowell, who is president, and P. K. Salesburg, who is vice-president.—Chicago Banker, March 24, 1906.

number of churches, among which were Blooming Grove, Old Salem, Pinckneyville, Dun Springs, Dyer's Hill and Seven Gums, in Livingston county, and Emmaus, Olive Branch, Crooked Creek, Deer Creek, Caldwell Springs, Donaldson and White Sulphur Springs, in Crittenden county, and New Bethel in Caldwell county.

In 1891 and 1892, on account of his difficult hearing, he resigned the pastorate of the four churches that he was serving, and after that he seldom attempted to preach, and then chiefly on funeral occasions. During his long and incessant ministerial labors Father Utley baptized more than 1500 hundred converts, organized a great many churches and united in marriage more than eight hundred couples.

Physically he was not a robust man, but he had an active and wiry constitution, a magnificent temperament, an elegant form, a graceful bearing, and a most persuasive manner of address.

He was a born musician, and with a soul, melodious voice, he was an ideal singer, until his voice finally became shattered by accumulated years.

The number of conversions and baptisms and the peace and prosperity of the very numerous churches he served as pastor, amply attested his brilliant qualities, both as revivalist and pastor.

On the 20th of October, 1903, Father Utley and wife, having become exceedingly frail and feeble, from the weight of accumulated years, removed to Williamson county, Ill., that they might have the care and attention of their daughter and son-in-law, Dr. Washburn, and Laura, his wife, and their son, Robert J. Utley.

Father Utley preached only one sermon after coming to Williamson county. This was at the Cross Roads church, on the fifth Sunday in May, 1904. It is said to have been worthy of his best days.

Besides his widow, Father Utley left seven living children, four sons and three daughters. Two of the sons, one a Baptist minister, the other a Methodist minister, live in Missouri. One son and one daughter live in Livingston county, one son in Florida, one daughter in Virginia, and one in Livingston county, Ky.

The Death Scene.—The Death Scene, the "passing away" of Father Utley, was sadly beautiful. He had lived temperately in all things, and no fatal disease or violent illness had fastened on him.

The old physical machine had simply worn out, run down, and he was at the valley and in the shadow of death; yet he feared no evil, for the Angel of the Covenant was standing there, prepared and ready to walk with him through death's dark vale. And see! He passes not away in gloom. A light from far illumines his face, a light that comes from beyond the moon, beyond the sun, the glorious light of truth divine and hope of resurrection.

No gloom, no terror, no writhing anguish, no death struggle, no dying groan, not even a frown; but calmly quietly peacefully and smilingly as an infant's dream he breathes, and breathes and falls asleep. The heart which had so often beat in sympathy with suffering humanity had stopped its motion forever, and the spirit released from its clog of dull mortality was borne triumphantly on angels' wings to Abraham's bosom.

O, let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord. Henceforth they rest from their labors and their works do follow them.

A Young Mother At 70.

"My mother has recently been made young at 70. Twenty years of intense suffering from dyspepsia had entirely disabled her, until six months ago, when she began taking Electric Bitters, which have completely cured her and restored the strength and activity she had in the prime of life," writes Mrs. W. L. Gilpatrick, of Danforth, Me. Greatest restorative medicine on the globe. Sets Stomach, Liver and Kidneys right, purifies the blood and cures Malaria, Biliousness and Weaknesses. Wonderful Nerve Tonic. Price 50c. Guaranteed by Woods & Orme drug store.

Central University Gets $5,000.

Danville, Ky., March 30.—Henry and Sam Lyons, laundry proprietors, contributed $5,000 to Central University today, starting the $30,000 endowment fund to the proposed library in connection with the College. Carnegie has offered $30,000 for building and equipping a library provided a like amount should be raised inside the state as an endowment.

Responsibility.

Dear Brothers and sisters of Hurricane Church: I thought I would write you a few lines, so bear with patience.

Not all the people in the church who profess to be saved get saved up to the point where they feel a need measure up to their responsibility as an individual to share in the responsibility and work of God in the church.

How few will ask the question: What is now my part, or what is my responsibility in assisting and carrying on the work of the church for the glory of God.

Nothing is even accomplished permanently without organized effort. People refusing to join some church they never accomplish very much. Intelligent believers as a general rule join some church for mutual help and spiritual work and to get people saved from sin. This is according to scripture; they do this according to their faith or creed. This forms the basis for the church and to ignore this is to ignore responsibility that rests on each christian.

A true believer desires to obligate himself to God and to spiritual men; he does not want to shirk his obligation. But there are many who seek to evade their responsibility.

They never want to face the duty they owe to God and their fellow-man; they go by their feelings, they consult their own desires, and that is themselves; they never stop to inquire where would the church be, and what would be the result if all would do as I am doing?

Some will not take upon themselves membership because they want to be free. But that really means to shirk this responsibility; they have a desire to do when and as they want to do.

But if all did the same way there would soon be no church, no meeting, no nothing. They seem never to think of this.

If they occasionally take hold and help in some way they think that they are conferring favors upon those who are always shouldering responsibilities and bearing burdens for the interest of the church of Christ. Why they will say we have done so and so, seem to want to boast of what they have done for the cause.

But there are many today who unite with the church, and who never think they should bear their share of the expense of the church. Lord help us! Strangers coming to our meetings would be impressed with the good of the cause. If these people were in their place at church, and helping those few who are always ready to do their part and trying to get people saved from sin, but they seem to think they have no responsibility resting upon them as individuals.

There is no one but has some responsibility resting upon them. God will hold them responsible for the manner in which they shirk these responsibilities.

So let one who loves you and the souls of men say let us be careful how we throw our responsibilities on other shoulders. Let each one inquire of our brethren, what will you have me to do? that I may have a part in the great day of the resurrection.

May these few lines prove a blessing to all is my prayer. Your sincere Brother in Jesus' name,

JAMES T. TERRY

A Few Pointers.

There ought to be some reform down in Memphis, and citizens ought to be compelled to take barbed wire off their fences. We was quite tired the other night, after a session of the Order, and while we was waiting for a car we sat down on a fence. Next morning when we got up we found the seat of our trousers was gone. HELPS TO STUDY.

Lk. 9:51, "that he should be received up;" leave the earth for heaven; the corresponding verb is used in Mk. 16:19; Acts 1:2, 11, 22 of the ascension. Luke looks beyond the death and resurrection to the ascension or includes the former in the latter. The incident which occurred in the Samaritan village shows that a part of this journey was made through Samaria. Neither Matthew nor Mark mentions the Samaritan incident.

The fact that they had to provide him a place of lodging, Mk. 6:10, indicates that there was quite a company traveling with him. The fact that he shortly sent out seventy disciples indicates the same; hence we consider the journey in Jno. 7:10 a different one. V. 58, a homeless wanderer, made so, however, not by absolute poverty, but by the necessities of his mission.

V. 59. The general meaning of this verse is that the kingdom of heaven always has the first claim and there are circumstances which render the duty of preaching the kingdom so imperative that not even the otherwise imperative duty of showing respect to one's aged or deceased parents can stand in the way of such service. Lesser duties can be left to those who have heard no such voice of duty, those who are still spiritually dead. V. 61, "to bid farewell," to linger a little longer before taking the final step, the outcome of which would probably have been that his resolution to follow Jesus would have disappeared. In these verses we have three disciples with their excuses. To the first of these, who was in danger of taking impulsively a step the significance of which he had not considered, Jesus points out the cost and seriousness of discipleship, to the second its paramount claims; to the third, the danger of irresolution and the need of prompt decisive choice.

Lk. 10:1 sq. "Seventy others . . . two and two . . . into every city and village whither he himself was about to come." This sentence makes it clear that Jesus planned quite an extensive evangelistic tour intending himself to visit not less than thirty towns, probably more. Where these towns were Luke does not say, other than that they were between Galilee and Jerusalem. Probably many, perhaps most, of them lay in Perea, as Matthew suggests, or in Judea and Perea, as Mark implies. This was the one territory inhabited by Jews in which Jesus had as yet done little or no work. Knowing that the end of his life was near, he plans a tour which shall reach as fully as may be the one remaining district of Palestine. We note in these Scriptures the mingling of the severe and gentle sides of Jesus' character.

THE TEACHER'S TRAINING.

- I. In knowledge
 - Of the Bible; a. Its structure, b. Evidence of its divine origin, c. Evidence of its inspiration, d. Historical facts of the Bible, e. Bible geography, f. Doctrines of the Bible, g. Principles of Bible interpretation, h. Manners and customs of the Bible.
 - Of pedagogy or teaching; a. Best method of instruction, b. The mind and soul which we teach.
- II. In experience
 - Of God's providential care and discipline in life.
 - Of the Spirit's work in our heart.
- III. In practice
 - Studying with a view of teaching, b. In teaching, c. In training.

THE BIBLE, Subdivisions.—The Bible was divided into chapters, A. D. 1250, by Hugo de Sancto Caro, a Spaniard. The New Testament was divided into verses, A. D. 1551 by Robert Stevens, an Englishman. The Old Testament was divided into verses A. D. 1661 by Athias, a Jewish printer. The titles and captions of chapters are not inspired. Italicized words are put in to supply the sense where the word is wanting in the original. The historical, doctrinal and prophetic is the natural order of all truth—first, that which is; second, that which ought to be; third, that which shall be. It pleased God to begin his book in the realm of reality, upon that to build the realm of duty, upon that to give glimpses of coming events.

SEARCH QUESTIONS.

1. What gospel gives the fullest account of the later Judean and Perea ministries? 2. What one gives the next fullest account? 3. Where did the events of these periods occur? 4. What does Lk. 9:57 mean? 5. What does v. 52 imply as to the route which Jesus had intended to pursue? 6. What spirit did the Samaritans show, and what the disciples? 7. State Jesus' answers to the three disciples that proposed to follow him. 8. Explain the meaning of each. 9. What does Lk. 10:1 show as to Jesus' plans of work at this period? 10. How much time would be required to carry out this plan? 11. What is the general intent of Jesus' instructions to these disciples? 12. On what previous occasion had he given similar instructions? 13. For what does Jesus upbraid the cities in which he had labored? 14. What principle is implied in Lk. 10:16?

GENERAL QUESTIONS.

1. Why do we think there was a number traveling with Jesus at that time? 2. What claims our first service in life? 3. Why did Jesus go into this new territory? 4. What are some of the special things in which a teacher ought to be trained? 5. When and by whom was the Bible divided into chapters and verses?

Blood Poisoning

Results from chronic constipation, which is quickly cured by Dr. King's New Life Pills. They remove all poisonous germs from the system and fuse new life and vigor; cure sour stomach, nausea, headache, dizziness, colic, without griping or discomfort. 25c. Guaranteed by Woods & Orme, druggists.

Albert T. Patrick.

New York, March 30.—Four years after the date on which he was convicted of the murder of Wm. Marsh Rice, the Texas millionaire, Albert T. Patrick's plea that an actual test be made to prove or disprove his contention that embalming fluid and not chloroform was the cause of the condition of Rice's body, was granted today. It was the office of District Attorney Jerome which had undertaken the investigation.

It was announced from District Attorney Jerome's office today that experiments to test Patrick's theory were begun under the direction of that office. Two persons whose bodies will be used either to aid in giving Patrick his liberty or defeat his efforts to secure a new trial, are patients who died in the Metropolitan hospital a few days ago, and the disposition of whose bodies are under the control of Dr. Louis Schultz, of the Charities department of the city, who assigns them for that purpose. They are aged 56 and 70. One is older and the other is younger than Rice.

The bodies will be embalmed with the same sort of fluid used in Rice's case. After a suitable time elapses autopsies will be performed.

The Richest Man in the World.

The richest man in the world can not have his kidneys replaced nor live without them, so it is important not to neglect these organs. If Foley's Kidney Cure is taken at the first sign of danger, the symptoms will disappear and your health will be restored, as it strengthens and builds up these organs as nothing else will. Oscar Bowman, Lebanon, Ky., writes: "I have used Foley's Kidney Cure and take great pleasure in stating it cured me permanently of kidney disease, which certainly would have cost me my life."

Million Dollar Tow.

One of the most valuable tows which has ever been trusted to the care of a single towboat passed Uniontown Wednesday, when the Pacific No. 2 swept by. The immense tow consists of twenty-five barges of finished iron and steel products in addition to several barges of coal and a big derrick boat. The value of the tow is variously estimated at from $750,000 to $1,000,000.

The Original.

Foley & Co., Chicago, originated Honey and Tar as a throat and lung remedy, and on account of the great merit and popularity of Foley's Honey and Tar many imitations are offered for the genuine. These worthless imitations have similar sounding names. Beware of them. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar is in a yellow package. Ask for it and refuse any substitute. It is the best remedy for coughs and colds. Woods & Orme.

Murdered His Wife.

Greensboro, N. C. March 30.—After a jury had deliberated for thirteen hours Saturday, Dr. J. B. Matthews was convicted of having murdered his wife, by injecting strichnine into her leg, as he pretended to be praying at her bedside. Guilty of murder in the second degree was the verdict, and Judge Ferguson sentenced the prisoner to the penitentiary for a term of 20 years.

Cured Hemorrhages of the Lungs.

"Several years since my lungs were so badly affected that I had many hemorrhages," writes A. M. Ake, of Wood, Ind. "I took treatment with several physicians without any benefit. I then started to take Foley's Honey and Tar and my lungs are now as sound as a bell. I recommend it in advanced stages of lung trouble." Foley's Honey and Tar stops the cough and heals the lungs and prevents serious results from a cold. Refuse substitutes. Woods & Orme.

Smelting Works Burned.

Grand Encampment, Wyo., March 30.—The great smelting and concentrating and electric and steam plant of the Pennsylvania and Wyoming Copper company has been almost completely destroyed by fire. Loss $500,000 which is partially covered by insurance.

Clears the Complexion.

Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup stimulates the liver and thoroughly cleanses the system and clears the complexion of pimples and blotches. It is the best laxative for women and children as it is mild and pleasant, and does not gripe or sicken. Orino is much superior to pills, aperient waters and all ordinary cathartics as it does not irritate the stomach and bowels. Woods & Orme.

Advertisement Gets a Wife.

Clarksville, Tenn., March 30.—As a result of an advertisement for a wife in a matrimonial journal, Edward Wilson of Jacksonville, Ore., married Miss Ora Baker, a splendid young woman of Elkton, Ky. Mr. Wilson's "ad." was read by Miss Baker about one year ago. They began to correspond, photographs were exchanged and the result was that Mr. Wilson boarded an eastbound train for the home of his bride and the ceremony was performed. The couple left immediately for their home in Oregon.

Stomach and Liver Trouble Cured.

Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup cures stomach and liver trouble as it aids digestion, and stimulates the liver and bowels without irritating these organs like pills and ordinary cathartics. It cures indigestion and sick headache and chronic constipation. Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup does not nauseate or gripe and is mild and pleasant to take. Refuse substitutes. Woods & Orme.

Girl Loses Eye.

Franklin, Ky., March 30.—Miss Bessie McFarlan today submitted to an operation for the removal of her right eye. She was feeding chickens when a hen flew in her face and pecked the eye. She suffered greatly and Dr. W. A. Guthrie advised the operation.

Danger From The Plague.

There's great danger from the plague of Coughs and Colds that are so prevalent, unless you take Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Mrs. Geo. Walls, of Forest City, Me., writes: "It's a Godsend to people living climates where coughs and colds prevail, I find it quickly ends them. It prevents Pneumonia, cures lagrippe, gives wonderful relief in asthma and hay fever, and makes weak lungs strong enough to ward off consumption, coughs and colds. 50c and $1. Guaranteed by Woods & Orme, drug store. Trial bottle free."

Kills His Man.

Henderson, Ky., March 30.—Ira Williams, a boy seventeen years of age, killed William Cutler at the Coquillard wagon works today.

Cutler was one of the foremen and had trouble with the boy two weeks ago. Today he ran a truck over the foot of the young man, and he grabbed a standard and hit Cutler in the back of the head.

The blow proved fatal and Cutler only lived until seven o'clock tonight. He leaves a wife to whom he had been married for six months.

Williams has been locked up here on the charge of murder.

INDIAN TERRITORY

Are you thinking of coming southwest? If so you should by all means visit the Indian Territory. Remember that we are just now on the eve of statehood and there is no richer spot upon the face of the earth than this; no country that offers as many inducements to both capital and labor. If you desire to acquaint yourself with the new country write to-day for the Indian Territory Business Guide. It tells you about the wonderfully cheap lands, laws governing same, and just how they can be secured. 200 pages of solid information. The book will be mailed to any address upon receipt of one dollar.

Nervous Worn-Out

If you are in this condition, your nerve force is weak—the power is giving out, the organs of your body have "slowed up," and do their work imperfectly. This failure to do the work required, clogs the system and brings distress and disease. When the nerves are weak the heart is unable to force the life-giving blood through your veins; the stomach fails to digest food; the kidneys lack power to filter impurities from the blood, and the poisonous waste remains in the system to breed disease. Nerve energy must be restored. Dr. Miles' Nerve will do it, because it strengthens the nerves; it is a nerve medicine and tonic, that rebuilds the entire nervous system.

"Several years ago I was all broken down. I was nervous, worn-out, could not sleep, and was in constant pain. I doctored for months, and finally the doctor said he could do nothing for me. I began taking Dr. Miles' Nerve, and used altogether eight bottles, and I became strong and healthy, and now weigh 170 pounds." H. C. CUNNE GHAM, 108 Ellsworth Ave., Allegheny, Pa.

Dr. Miles' Nerve is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

The "eccentricities of genius," we have seen so much remarked upon at we meet not a few persons who, concerning themselves, with the eccentricities in the fond belief that the genius must in some way prove a necessary sequence. They fancy that the former presupposes the latter and that if the label is sufficiently patent there will be no inquiry about the odds. To be rudely self-assertive, comfortably neglectful of life's sweet amenities," and to override common usage and conventionalities, is no mark of a superior mind. A thoughtful regard for the wishes and rights of others, gentle courtesy and a modest estimate of one's self may not constitute genius, but they certainly form an order of talent that is

Jungle Dentistry

"Oh, this pain," said Mrs. Hippo.
"It's the very worst toothache
I ever had!
To the monkey doctor I will go this day
And see what science he can bring to play!"

So she sank into the monkey
Dentist's chair.
"What," she said, "if you hurt me I do declare
I will bite your head off quickly,
And you'll see
That I won't stand monkey business
Here with me!"

Tremblingly the monkey took a Little peep.
Then with gas he put the Hippo
Fast asleep:
Prepared her awful mouth wide open
With a stick
And then said unto himself:
"I must be quick!"

"This big tooth must come out quickly,
And I might
Blow out the thing with patent Maximite."
So he placed a cartridge near the Awful root.
Then ran out the door to listen
To it shoot.

Oh, what awful noises rent
The summer air!
Parts of Mrs. Hippo flew most Everywhere.
Then, like other doctors, he was Satisfied.
For he said it was successful.
But she died.

The Disobedient Duckling

"Children, do not run far away," said Mamma Duck to her four little ducklings one day as she sat down in a place for a nap.
But she had no sooner closed her eyes when Dick Duckling said to his three brothers:
"Let us take a stroll in the meadow."
"No," they replied; "mamma told us

HE GRABBED POOR DICKY.

we would get into trouble if we wandered away."
"Oh, she's too careful," declared
Dick. "Come on; let's have some fun.
There's no harm."
And so he finally persuaded them to go with him, and they wandered through the grass a long way from where their mother was asleep.
They were having a real good time,
too, when suddenly a large, hungry fox sprang from the bushes. He grabbed poor Dicky by the throat and ran off as hard as he could to his home, where he made a good meal off the disobedient duckling.
Can you guess what the moral of this little story is?—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Short and Long Days.
The day is longer or shorter as you go north or south of the equator. Off Cape Horn, 56 degrees south latitude, the days in midwinter are about nine hours long. The longest day at London is sixteen hours and a half; at Stockholm, eighteen hours and a half; at Hamburg, seventeen hours; at St. Petersburg the longest day has eighteen hours and the shortest five; at Tornea, in Finland, the longest day has twenty-one hours and a half and the shortest two hours and a half; at Spitzber-gen the longest day is three months and a half.

The Better Way.

The tissues of the throat are inflamed and irritated; you cough, and there is more irritation—more coughing. You take a cough mixture and it eases the irritation—for a while. You take

SCOTT'S

and it cures the cold. That's what is necessary. It soothes the throat because it reduces the irritation; cures the cold because it drives out the inflammation;
builds up the weakened tissues
because it nourishes them back to their natural strength. That's how Scott's Emulsion deals with a sore throat, a cough, a cold,

COURAGEOUS MRS. LOGAN.

Widow of One Hero and Mother of Another, She Is a Real Patriot.

Mrs. John A. Logan has the courageous spirit which made her husband, the late General Logan, one of the most idolized heroes of the civil war.
For many years Mrs. Logan has been conspicuous in patriotic work. In pursue of her labors in the field of patriotic education she was scheduled to deliver a lecture at the State Normal school in West Chester, Pa., a short time ago. Just before the time for the address she slipped while descending a stairway in the home of her host and broke her left arm. The pain from the fractured member was severe, but remembering the example of bravery set her by her husband she disregarded physical discomfort and went upon the platform just as if nothing had happened to disturb her composure. She was heartily cheered for her courage
when the facts became known.
Mrs. Logan was Miss Mary S. Cunningham, and she was born in 1838 in Peterboro, Mo. She is the daughter of a soldier and the granddaughter of a soldier. In the civil war her husband battled for the Union cause, and some of her brothers and uncles fought in the blue, others in the gray. When

MRS. JOHN A. LOGAN.

General Logan was wounded at Fort Donelson she went there and nursed him through his long illness. Her son, Major John A. Logan, Jr., was killed in the Philippines while stooping to assist a fallen comrade in a victorious charge during the campaign against Aguinaldo. Mrs. Logan has shown her devotion to her country in so many ways that her choice as president of the American Red Cross society, in succession to Clara Barton, seemed especially fitting. The widow of General Logan is widely known and loved.

Mrs. Logan, now white haired and stately in appearance, is a woman of many accomplishments and great tact.
A story told of the Blaine and Logan campaign of 1884 illustrates how the clever wife sometimes saved her bluff and impulsive spouse from mistakes.
At Cincinnati Blaine had been accorded a great ovation, but through some oversight when Logan arrived a little later not a soul extended to him the freedom of the city. The general resented it and in a conversation with a reporter intimated strongly that Mr.
Blaine had had something to do with the incident. When the newspaper man took his departure Mrs. Logan followed him into the hall. She said:

"The general was indiscreet in saying a great many things that would not look well in print. Promise me you will make no use of them tomorrow." The reporter protested. He had been sent for the interview and could not afford to disobey his instructions, but Mrs. Logan placed her hand on his arm in a motherly fashion and again entreated him. "I am very anxious," said she, "that the Republican ticket should be elected this fall. What the general has said would create a serious division within the Republican ranks.
I know the nature of the sacrifice I am asking. We have a great many friends among the newspaper men at Washington, and if the time ever comes when General Logan can do as much for you I assure you it shall be done."
The reporter gave the promise. Not a line of the conversation appeared the next day.

The North Pole Polar

Bruin was ambitious, and, like many of us, his ambition was always getting him into trouble. He was a polar bear and lived amid the ice and snows of the far north. One day, overhearing a conversation between two Arctic explorers, he said to himself, for he usually talked to himself, not being able to get any one else to listen to him: "I wonder if I couldn't find that north pole they talk so much about. Here these fellows come from way off to the south and freeze most of themselves and starve the rest to find something that must be floating around loose up here, where I've lived all my days. By Jinks I'll find it!"

For days he wandered on in his uncertain search until one day he saw in

THIS IS GETTING TIRESOME.

the distance something sticking out of the water that he was sure was the north pole. "It's a pole anyway," he said to himself, "and I'm sure it's far enough north to be a north pole. I shall be famous if I find what all these men have been looking for so long."
So he crawled along the ice to where a ship had foundered and left one of its masts sticking out of the water.
"That's it!" cried Bruin eagerly. "At last I have it. I shall hold it till some one comes."
So he climbed to the top.
But no one came, of course.

"Oh, dear," thought he, "how long shall I have to wait for some one to tell my discovery to? This is getting tiresome."
Yes, and it was getting dangerous, for the ice drifted away and left him stunned. For all I know, he's there yet.

"Good gracious!" said he. "What's the use of finding a thing you can't take home to show any one?"
That's true. What is the use?—St.
Louis Post-Dispatch.

Mr. Pigeon's Sad Mistake

"Now that you have such fine Sunday clothes, I should have a new hat," said Mrs. Pigeon to Mr. Pigeon.
"What kind of a hat?" asked Mr.
Pigeon.
"A hat with ostrich feathers," said
Mrs. Pigeon.
"Where can I get them?" asked Mr.
Pigeon.
"From the tail of that ostrich walking across the field," said Mrs. Pigeon.

"I'll try," said Mr. Pigeon.
"Oh, he would not let me pull the feathers from his tail!" cried Mr. Pigeon. "Only men can do that."
"You surprise me!" cried Mrs. Pigeon.
"Why, with that high hat and polka dot tie and standing collar and striped trousers you look so much like a man that the ostrich will think you are a man. Run along over there now like a good husband and get me the feathers."

"I'll try," said Mr. Pigeon, and off he went. He got up real close to the ostrich and made a dive for a feather.
The ostrich turned his head and dealt Mr. Pigeon a fearful whack with his bill. The high hat was split clear in two, and Mr. Pigeon rolled over on the ground in a heap half senseless. Then Mr. Ostrich walked away as if nothing had happened.
"He didn't think I was a man," said
Mr. Pigeon to his wife as she bathed his head.
"You silly goose!" said she. "You should have told him you were a man.
Then it would have been easy."—

A Change of Diet

Little Tommy Grasshopper
A naughty habit had.
He'd chew all day and nighttime
Tobacco good and hard.
Dr. Duck heard of the case
And called his aid to lend.
He said, "I'll surely cure you,
If fees you mean to spend."
The Hopper said he'd pay him,
And doctor said, "All right.
We'll start this very moment.
I'll cure your falling quite."

AND CALLED HIS AID TO LEND.
The doctor changed his diet.
Said, "No potato vines.
No green peas in the morning.
No beets or melon rinds.
"No cantaloupes or peaches.
No plums or colery.
No lima beans or parsnips.
They don't with you agree."
"I've brought this health food for you.
Eat it alone for food,
And I am sure tobacco
Will never more taste good.
"It builds the nerves and takes Makes muscles by the pound
And for good health I think it's
The best thing ever found."
"It looks like sawdust, doctor.
I'll eat it anyway."
Alas, he ate and ate it,
But choked to death, they say.

Black Cat Changes Color.

Lawrenceburg, Ind., April 2. Harry Blythe has a cat whose jet black hair has suddenly turned gray under peculiar circumstances. It is a tom cat and is nicknamed 'Lee Box Jim' because of his disposition to hover near to that receptacle of the good things.

While Lee Box Jim lay snoozing the other day, he was awakened by the barking of a big bull dog which entered the store. Cat and dog faced each other for a moment then there began a race for life. Lee Box Jim, with the bulldog in hot pursuit, jumped on boxes, counters, shelves, and finally made his exit from the store, closely followed by the bull dog.

The cat ran up an electric pole and remained there for several minutes, maneuvering around and anxious to come down to a place of safety when suddenly the cat fell as though shot dead. Blythe thought his cat had been electrocuted. He picked up the limp body and laid it on the counter in the store. One of the nine lives, however, returned, and the feline is as well as ever, only that its hair has turned a perfect gray, and that it now avoids climbing telegraph poles, or anything else.

Caught Cold While Hunting a Burglar.

Mr. Wm. Thos. Lanorgan, provincial constable at Chapleau, Ontario, says: "I caught a severe cold while hunting a burglar in a forest swamp last fall. Hearing of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, I tried it, and after using two small bottles I was completely cured." This remedy is intended especially for coughs and colds. It will loosen and relieve a severe cold in less time than by any other treatment and is a favorite wherever its superior excellence has become known. For sale by Woods & Orme, the leading drug store in Western Kentucky.

Escaped Convicts Hiding in Kentucky.

Vincennes, Ind., March 30.—Geo. Lawton, jailbreaker, captured at Hazelton yesterday, says that Harry Corrie, Samuel Brown and George White, who escaped with him are are likely in hiding in Kentucky.

Lawson claims that Corrie, who is under penitentiary sentence for larceny, and who has served time in both Indiana prisons, engineered the jail delivery. Corrie cut teeth in a case knife with a razor, and he and Brown took turn about sawing the bars, one playing the harp while the other sawed. Corrie told Lawson he had a wife and son at Wickliffe, Ky. and the day before his escape wrote his wife saying: "I will soon be with you."

Grip Quickly Knocked Out.

"Some weeks ago during the severe winter weather both my wife and myself contracted severe colds which speedily developed into the worst kind of la grippe with all its miserable symptoms," says Mr. J. S. Eggleston, of Maple Landing, Iowa. "Knees and joints aching, muscles sore, head stopped up, eyes and nose running, with alternate spells of chills and fever. We began using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, aiding the same with a double dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and by its liberal use soon completely knocked out the grip. Sold by Woods & Orme, the leading drugstore in Western Kentucky."

Crushed to Death.

Michigan City, Ind., March 30.—Five tons of coal accidentally released from a chute in the yards of the Michigan Central Railroad company, today fell upon Richard Purcell, an employe, and crushed him to death. He was seventeen years old.

He was a brother of Mr. Thomas Jones, a fireman on one of the Illinois Central passenger trains, and lived at Princeton with a widowed mother.

The medical profession is ably and worthily represented in our city, both as to numbers and ability in the profession, and among our best known and most successful practitioners we mention the gentleman whose name appears above.

Dr. Clark has been established here for about three years, and has fully demonstrated his ability in many difficult cases, and the large practice the people have afforded him have steadily measured confidence in him as a most worthy member of the profession.

Dr. Clark is one of our most highly esteemed citizens. Aside from his medical career, since coming here he has leased a large body of land, four miles north of Milburn and it is his intention to establish an up-to-date ranch, and now has some 300 head of steers on same.—Milburn, Gkla., News.

HER MARRIAGE A FAILURE.

Countess di Castelmenardo and Her Brilliant Social Career.

The Countess di Castelmenardo, who is suing for separation from her titled husband, was formerly Miss Edith Van Buren of New York and was a noted figure in American circles abroad. She is a grandniece of the late President Martin Van Buren and daughter of the late General Thomas Van Buren, who was United States minister to Japan. She was married in 1890 to Count Vessibio Gurgio di Castelmenardo, son of the Duchess Tortora Branda di Belvedere Giuditia Gurgio di Castelmenardo.

of Naples. The count has been convicted of unfaithfulness and, as provided by Italian law, sentenced to three months' imprisonment and to pay the costs of the action. The countess is a globe trotter, she has been around the world several times, won fame by roughing it in the Klondike, has traveled in South America, has been admired by King Leopold of Belgium and has ruled as a belle at European fashionable resorts.

A VERSATILE GENIUS.

Oscar Hammerstein, Impresario, and His Achievements.

Oscar Hammerstein, who proposes to give productions of grand opera in New York on a magnificent scale and yet at prices within the reach of the masses, believes in legacies. He wants to leave a legacy to the people when he dies. Others have left libraries and colleges and hospitals and art galleries, but nobody seems to have thought of leaving a home of music, an educator of musical taste, at theater prices. This is what he hopes the Manhattan Opera House, which he is now building, will be. It will be a rival to the Metropolitan Opera House, which has never had a rival before. Its existence will mean competition for the services of the great operatic singers, with corresponding benefits to the pockets of the latter, and Mr. Hammerstein promises that the works produced at his opera house will reach a high standard. The impresario is one of the most versatile men in the theatrical world. He has made fortunes and lost them several times. He has built some half dozen big amusement places in his time and has won distinction in various ways as a purveyor of public entertainment. Mr. Hammerstein came to this country from Germany before he had reached his majority and landed in New York penniless and friendless. He found employment in a cigar store and learned to roll cigars. One day he thought out a machine which would make a hundred cigars while a man was making one. He had been getting married about that time, the rent was due, and he had no money with which to pay it. There was very little in the cupboard, though the Hammersteins were good eaters. Nevertheless he came home to a scanty meal with a cheerful countenance, for on the table in front of his plate he laid a certified check for $68,000, the sum realized from the sale of his invention. He afterward made over $200,000 from another cigar making invention, and he has invented and patented many other devices, some forty in all; has built apartment houses, composed operas and tried his hand at a variety of other things. This colloquy once occurred between him and an interviewer:

OSCAR HAMMERSTEIN.

"How much do you sleep?"
"Four hours a day."
"And eat?"
"A banana for lunch, breakfast and dinner very light and simple. My expenses come easily within $1.50 a day."
"Drink?"
"Not at all. No booze. Never drank a glass of champagne in my life. Never touched a card, either, or bet at a race track or insured my life."

Ground Hog Vindicated.

Mayfield Messenger: Six weeks ago Saturday the ground hog made his prophecy that there would be forty-two more days of winter. The little prognosticator was abused and vilified but he stands vindicated before the world. There has been not weather the greater portion of the entire six weeks and a good deal of it very bad.

But now that the six weeks have expired and the ground hog has proven himself a true prophet, it is to be hoped that winter is at an end. There are no visible indications of it, to be sure, and for several days past nothing worse could have come, had it been made to order.

A man dictating a letter to another man with whom he had quarreled, wrote thus:

"Owing to the fact that my stenographer is a lady, I cannot say to you what I think of you; and, as I am a gentleman, I would not. But you, being neither, can readily guess what is on my mind."

Worst Floods in Years.

Denver, March 28.—Wyoming is experiencing the worst floods of recent years. The Platt river, from the Colorado line to the Nebraska line, a distance of five hundred miles, has overflowed its banks, flooding the adjacent country. Reports of missing ranchmen, damage to ranch and other property, and the drowning of live stock are reported. The floods are caused by the melting snow.

Lightning's Pranks.

Mayfield, Ky., March 30.—W. A. Martin a prominent farmer living four miles south of the city had a close call Monday night during a thunder storm. About six o'clock he went out to the stable to feed and care for his stock, and while standing about six feet between each of two horses, a stroke of lightning knocked down both of the horses, stunned himself, and killed one of his steers about twelve feet from him, worth twenty dollars. His little boy, who was nearby in the lot, was badly stunned also and was quite sick all night from the effects. Mr. Martin was badly frightened and believe he was near eternity for a second or two.

Leg Broke in Two.

While swinging on the end of a delivery wagon which was moving rapidly, John Traylor, the seven year old son of John Traylor, Sr., who who lives in Shippingport, Ky., had his leg caught in the rapidly revolving wheels. The bone of the leg was snapped in two below the knee, and the lad was hurled to the ground; several persons ran to his assistance and carried him to his home in the neighborhood. He was later removed in the City Hospital ambulance to Gray street Infirmary, where the injury was dressed.—Courier Journal.

MOST BEAUTIFUL WOMAN.

MRS. WALTER FARWELL OF
CHICAGO AND WASHINGTON
IS HOLDING THE HONOR.Is Daughter of the Wife of Stephen A.
Douglass, Herself a Famous Belle, Husband's Father Began Life a Poor Boy.

Who is the most beautiful woman in America? This was the question recently propounded in connection with the preparation of a Beauty Book which was designed to sell at something like twenty-five dollars per copy. It was intended to present in the expensive volume portraits of the handsomest women in each of the principal American cities but one member of the fair sex was to be selected as preeminently the most beautiful creature in Miss Columbia's domain.

Naturally there was great rivalry for the honor and the persons who sat in judgment upon the photographs of beautiful women which were submitted in the contest had a rather difficult time to reach a decision. Finally, the choice fell upon Mrs. Walter Farwell of Washington, D. C. and Chicago who was a bride of but a few months when the mooted question was decided in her favor. In arriving at a decision the judges studied the features of each subject critically just as a per-

Miss Mildred Williams was a great belle from the very day that she made her first formal bow to the social world. To be sure she had no dower but her own marvelous beauty but she made that the gossip pronounced a "great catch" when she married Walter Farwell of Chicago, one of the most prominent young millionaires of the Windy City.

Started with $10 Capital.

Young Farwell is the son of ex-Senator Farwell who started in life as a poor boy at Painted Post, New York, later removing to Illinois and eventually going to Chicago on a load of wheat with but $10 in his pocket. He secured employment in the county clerk's office; later became teller of a bank and finally established with his brother the great dry goods business which to this day causes the name of Farwell to be well known in mercantile circles. In 1887 the Farwell brothers built the Texas State Capitol receiving in payment therefor more than 3,000,000 acres of land. Much of this land they sold but considerable holdings of it went to form a gigantic ranch which was stocked with 150,000 cattle and helped materially to swell the Farwell fortune.

Both of Ex-Senator Farwell's daughters married men well known to the public so that the beautiful Mrs. Walter Farwell has two very prominent sisters-in-law. One is Mrs. Reginald De Koven, wife of the well known com-

FAIRBANKS IS ACTIVE.

WORKING TO SECURE PLEDGES
FOR THE PRESIDENTIAL NOM-INATION IN 1908.Is Sure of Indiana Delegation—Is Also Counting on Illinois, and Thinks Chances Good in Ohio—At Work in South.

Vice-President Fairbanks is 6 feet, 3 inches in height, the tallest man in the Senate. He is also looming up pretty tall as a presidential candidate for 1908.

Unless other candidates bestir themselves, Mr. Fairbanks will at no distant day have a sufficient number of delegates pledged to make him the most formidable candidate for the nomination.

VICE-PRESIDENT FAIRBANKS.

Mr. Fairbanks has had the Presidential bee in his bonnet for many years. He was a great favorite of President McKinley, and many persons believe that Mr. McKinley desired to see Mr. Fairbanks succeed him in the Presidential chair.

There have recently been long conferences between Indiana politicians, Mr. Fairbanks, and his friends, and there is good reason to believe that a great deal has been accomplished in the way of perfecting the organization formed for the purpose of securing the Republican nomination for Indiana's son two years hence.

Beveridge is in Line.

Everything is said to be lovely for Mr. Fairbanks in Indiana. He has cleaned up the opposing faction in the Republican party there, headed by the youthful Senator Beveridge, who is understood to have responded so readily to the treatment applied that he now gives three cheers every time the name of Fairbanks is mentioned in his presence. Senator Beveridge is no longer in a position to hamper the progress of the Fairbanks' boom in Indiana. In the factious fight over the State chairmanship, Mr. Beveridge suffered an ignominious rout, and even if he does not train with Mr. Fairbanks in the future, he will not actively oppose him.

Following Senator Hanna's Methods.

In his campaign to secure delegates for William McKinley in 1896, Marcus A. Hanna began his operations in the South. He had securely nailed down that section before the representatives of other candidates had begun to work. Mr. Hanna enlisted in the cause a number of young men, who went out looking for delegates and got them. Mr. Fairbanks knows something about the methods of Mr. Hanna, and his representatives are now treating with leading party men in the South. While the Republican party in the South is short on votes on election day, it is long on delegates in the national convention. This fact is keenly appreciated by Mr. Fairbanks.

Chances in Illinois.

The Vice-President is certain of Indiana's delegates, and he is counting upon Illinois. His fortunes in that State are in the hands of Charles G. Dawes, former Comptroller of the Currency, one of Mr. Hanna's "young men" in the pre-convention campaign made in the interest of the candidacy of Mr. McKinley. Fairbanks had strong and influential friends in Illinois and his chances of securing the delegation from that State are probably better than those of any other man who has been mentioned for the Presidential nomination, with the exception of Speaker Cannon. Mr. Dawes is understood to be the western manager of the Fairbanks boom. At least, such a report was circulated recently, and it has never been denied.

The Vice-President and his friends profess to believe the next standard bearer of the Republican party will be a western man. Ohio has two favorite sons in the persons of Secretary Taft and Senator Foraker. Both are very strong in Ohio and both are widely and favorably known throughout the country. The Fairbanks men believe that the rivalry of Taft and Foraker will prevent either of them securing the united support of Ohio's delegation to the next convention. Therefore, Fairbanks is figuring on the Buckeye state. Some of the Hoosier's friends are very enthusiastic, and to hear them one would think that the formalities of a nominating convention and an election might just as well be dispensed with.

Of course if Mr. Roosevelt should run for reelection, as it is being prominently argued that he will, notwithstanding his publicly expressed attitude against another term, it is admitted that he would be the practically unanimous choice for nomination and the work of the Fairbanks party would have been in vain.

INDIA'S RICHEST POTENTATE.

He Owns a Carpet Made of Precious Gems and Diamonds and Rubies
by the Bushel.

During the stay of the Prince and Princess of Wales in India they will doubtless meet and be entertained by a personage who has every reason to be regarded as the richest man in the Orient, if not in the whole world. This is the Gaikwar (or Rajah) of Baroda, a potentate who well illustrates Milton's famous line concerning the "Barbaric pearl and gold" which the "gorgeous East" showers on its kings. No doubt, in point of annual income, there are richer men—Mr. John D. Rockefeller, for instance—but, from the standpoint of personal possessions the Gaikwar probably has no rival in the world.

When he came to the throne some twenty-five years ago the present ruler of Baroda found stored in the vaults of his palace wealth so colossal that a description of it outdoes the "Arabian Nights" itself. Certainly Aladdin never thought of a carpet of jewels, such as the Gaikwar possesses. To say that there is nothing like it in the world is only feebly to describe its glories, which can be better indicated by the statement that it is about four yards square and composed of ropes of rubies, diamonds, pearls, woven into a regular carpet well-defined pattern and border. Thousands of dollars' worth of jewels, every one of the finest quality, went to make up this wondrous carpet, the product of three years' work by skilled artists and jewel setters.

Now, if the Gaikwar of Baroda were only moderately wealthy, this monarch of carpets would doubtless occupy the place of honor in his palace. But as he possesses jewels enough to set up a dozen ordinary monarchs the jeweled tapestry occupies an odd corner, and is shown to visitors as merely but one of the treasures of the palace.

Less of a curiosity, but far more valuable, is the Gaikwar's diamond necklace, a trinket the value of which several times make a man a millionaire. This necklace is the most magnificent in existence. And even the honor of possessing the second finest is denied to the rest of the world, for that also is amongst the Gaikwar's family jewels, being worn by his wife, who is, besides, dowered with brooches, bracelets, rings and other ornaments, the value of which is computed in millions of dollars.

Another notable ornament worn by the Gaikwar is a collar made of five hundred diamonds of the purest water, which includes in its glittering rows the famous "Star of the South," the fourth largest diamond in the world.

Such a dazzling collection—such a "welter" of jewels—was, needless to say, not made in a single life-time. For centuries the Gaikwar's ancestors have been accumulating their treasures, until to-day the jewels alone could be measured in bushels. As for the rest, there are pictures in bronzes and statuary to the value of several millions of money.

A royal procession in Baroda is worth going many miles to see. Horses and elephants, all splendidly caparisoned and blazing with gems, lead the way; but the cynosure of all eyes is the Gaikwar, not merely because of his person, but also by reason of the stupendous wealth represented by the jewels with which he adorns himself.

He is, perhaps, the one man in the world who could wear that mammoth amongst gems, the great Premier Diamond, without incongruity.

Sleeping Car Acquaintances.

Representative Smith of Maryland is the subject of a good story these days. When he hears it he merely smiles and looks wise. Mr. Smith, the little narrative says, was standing a few days ago in front of the White House talking to two Secret Service men, when a boy came dashing out of the Executive Mansion.

"Who's that?" queried the Congressman.

"That's Archibald Roosevelt," he was informed.

A moment later another youngster appeared through the same door and Mr. Smith repeated his question.

"That's Kermit," said one of the guards.

Just then a third boy came swirling along on roller skates.

"I guess that's another one of the Roosevelts," suggested the man from Maryland.

"Yes," was the answer, "That's Quentin."

"By gum," commented Mr. Smith, "they've all got names like sleeping cars. I feel just as if I were standing on the station platform at home watching the limited express shoot by."

A DARKY CHRISTENING.

WEIRD SCENE AMONG THE
SOUTHERN COLORED BAP-TISTS—FEET WASHING.Third Letter of Account of Trip into the Sunny Southland.—Interesting Visits to Jacksonville, Savannah and Richmond.

The first Sunday we spent in Eustis we drove to Lake Gracie, just in the rear of the hotel grounds, to witness the Baptist colored immersion. It was a perfect June morning, with settings of pure gold. It did not seem possible that it was windy March at home. The orange groves reached down to the very edge of the lake, which lay placid, like a mirror. Several of the guests rowed across from the hotel to witness the ceremony. Presently the preacher, followed by his candidates and flock, came through the woods singing one of their wild refrains. A few words from the Good Book, a prayer, all kneeling, and then an exhortation delivered with much vigor. The baptism was quietly performed with the exception of the case of one of the sister candidates who felt so happy, that two men were obliged to carry her out of the water. In the evening we all drove to Egypt, the colored settlement, and I never in my life attended such a service. It was the first Sunday in March, which is a high day in the church—"The Primitive Baptist." The church building is a little wooden structure with bare benches along each side and a rough table in front of a box of a pulpit. When we entered, a prayer meeting was being held. As many of the native congregation cannot read, the hymns are lined, two lines at a time—and such strange music I never heard. They don't seem to sing the words; it is just a loud monotonous refrain, and was perfectly deafening in that small building. The prayers were mostly ejaculations to the Lord, accompanied with clapping of hands and loud expressions from all the brothers and sisters. The sermon was the most rambling discourse imaginable, beginning with Genesis and ending in Revelation, accompanied with vigorous pantomime of face, arms and legs. Then the darkies screamed and yelled at the top of their voices and during all of which one of the sisters got "happy" and surged over into another seat, screaming and jumping up and down. Several huson sisters held her until she became quiet. Then the collection was taken up, each one going up to the table and laying his money on was attired in a white and gray cotton mother hubbard gown tied around the waist with a white apron; around her neck she wore a black fur collar and on her head a very broad brimmed black hat turned up on one side in a jaunty manner. This colored lady, weighing 285 pounds, as I was told, proceeded to set the communion table. From his chair in the pulpit, the minister called out, "Let us know, sister, when you are ready, and we'll begin business." "All right," responded Aunt Savannah cheerfully, "Ise ready." Then right in the midst of the service another woman became happy, jumping over in the seat back of her directly among the women and babies, and I don't know why the babies were not killed. Such a scattering I never saw before. Pandemonium reigned, but all the time the plate of bread was being passed.

CONFEDERATE MONUMENT AT SAVANNAH.

Washing Their Feet.

Then came the "foot washing." Two ten-cent basins were placed on the table; the men and women took off their shoes and stockings; the preacher washed the first elder's feet, wiping them with the towel which was girdled around his waist; then passed the basin and towel to the elder, who washed the next one's feet, and so on until all were done. Aunt Savannah then began a like ceremony on the sister's side of the church; and all the time the dreadful singing, shouting, clapping of hands, stamping of washed and unwashed feet continued in a deafening racket. Finally the table was takwhile all the time this dreadful singing continued without a break or interruption.

Then "Aunt Savannah," the Captain of the frail sex, became busy. She

MRS. WALTER FARWELL.

AWARDED FIRST PRIZE AS THE MOST BEAUTIFUL WOMAN IN AMERICA.

son might judge the good qualities of a picture and the award was made to Mrs. Farwell as the possessor of the greatest degree of perfection in every attribute of womanly beauty.

For the benefit of any person who might be disposed to find fault with the decision of the committee it may be said in simple truth that none of Mrs. Farwell's likenesses do her justice. She is a tall, surpassingly graceful woman of the type so often referred to as the "Gibson girl," with slender but perfect figure; a marvellously clear complexion; hair that is tinged with gold, and a very animated manner. She has been famous ever since she first entered society for being one of the best, or rather one of the most artistically gowned women in the pulpit.

Mother Was a Famous Beauty.

Mrs. Farwell comes by her beauty as a rightful heritage from her mother who was the most famous beauty of her day. Before her marriage Mrs. Farwell was Miss Mildred Williams. Perhaps this name does not suggest what unusual to the older generation of our readers but the hidden significance will be disclosed when it is explained that Mrs. Williams, the mother of this stately beauty of the present day was in earlier years Mrs. Stephen Douglass, wife of one of the foremost men of his day and herself famous as the greatest beauty of the per-

Some time after the death of Stephen A. Douglass his widow married Mr. Williams of the United States Army. For a time the couple lived in Washington but Gen. Williams who was a man of some note became so obsessed at hearing himself referred to as the husband of the former Mrs. Stephen A. Douglass that he secured a transfer to a Western army and remained in the wilds of western America for many years, not turning to the capital city until his wife's beauty was less conspicuous than formerly and he was himself less alive on the score of personal van-poor of Robin Hood and other operas, and the other is Mrs. Hobart Chatfield Taylor, who has gained fame and fortune as a writer of novels. Mrs. Farwell's home is in the beautiful family mansion in Chicago but she spends much of her time at the capital of the nation where she formerly resided and where her sister-in-law, Mrs. De Koven, has a handsome home.

Origin of Easter.

Easter is so called from the Saxon goddess, Easter, or as others think, from the Saxon, Oster,—to rise. In the East the day is known as the "Bright Day," and in Bohemia as the "Great Night."

The Russian Easter.

Easter Day is set apart for visiting in Russia. The men go to each other's houses in the morning and introduce themselves by saying, "Jesus Christ is risen." The answer is, "Yes, He is risen." The people then embrace, give each other eggs, and drink a great deal. They present a colored red egg to the priest of the parish on Easter morning. The common people carry one of these red eggs in their hands upon Easter Day, and three or four days after. They use it in token of the Resurrection, whereof they rejoice.

Oriental Egg Gamblers.

Hyde in his description of Oriental sports, tells of one with eggs among the Christians of Mesopotamia on Easter Day, and forty days afterward: "The sport consists in striking their eggs one against another, and the egg that first breaks is won by the owner of the one that struck it. Immediately another egg is pitted against the winning egg, and so on till the last egg wins all the others, which their respective owners shall before have won."

hands and going through a thousand genuflections, until we left at eleven o'clock, and they kept up the performance until midnight. What an emotional people!

I revelled in the most exquisite roses during all of our stay in Eastis, our hostess keeping our room filled with the choicest varieties, so marvelous in color, so rich in perfume, as to almost intoxicate us with their beauty.

Wine Strawberries Grow.

March 15th we took the train for Ocala, the next day reached Lawtie, a quiet little town settled by northerners devoted to strawberry culture. Here we spent a week driving, walking, sitting on the broad piazza of the hotel in the sun, getting tanned and fat. Nothing here is cultivated but acres and acres of strawberries, little tiny plants; but raise the leaves and you can pick nearly a quart from one vine. The number of quarts shipped north during the season is fabulous, but occasional freezes do damage.

The mornings and evenings were always cold, so we had a wood fire in the big fire-place in our room, of fat pitch pine wood, and it was very fascinating to watch the fire light, as it flickered here and there, lighting the room so that we needed no lamp. All through the South the mocking birds were singing, calling and answering each other day and night. Returning to Jacksonville we devoted the few hours we had to visiting the shops and the Exposition building. Here in the Alligator Pool we saw a number of the uncanny looking beasts, the largest of which was ten feet long, so utterly hideous and ugly that he was most fascinating to me. Our next stop was at Savannah, where we drove all over the city and out on the beautiful shell road to the old cemetery, called "Bonaventure" (Beautiful Way), where the trees, great live oaks, several with gray moss, are a hundred years old.

Great Natural Arches.

Roads have been cut through the woods and the effect is indescribable; it is like driving through great cathedral arches, so sombre and solemn, and so grand withal, a fitting place for the dead. Savannah is a beautiful old city, with many parks and squares planted with palms and palmettos, right in its heart. The magnolias seem the favorite tree, and they grow to a great height. The houses are large and broad, with verandas all around the two stories, and they must be needed in the hot summer. We had a very full day, and at seven o'clock took the sleeper for Richmond. We rode all the next day, reaching our destination in the evening, and drove to Ford's Hotel, where we had stopped thirty-five years ago on our wedding trip. But the hotel had changed, the city has grown, and nothing looked natural except Sunset Park and the old Capitol Park. The grass was turning green and the numerous gray squirrels were so tame they came and ate from my hand. We drove all the morning, visiting the beautiful statue of Gen. Robert E. Lee—a bronze equestrian on an immense granite pedestal. In the afternoon we drove to the park and hunted up Mr. Pollard, the Virginian who captured my husband during the war. It was their first meeting since that memorable time when they were mere boys, one wearing the blue and the other the gray, and they had a most interesting "war talk."

The next morning we took our train for Washington exactly five weeks from the day we left. It has been truly a delightful trip, beneficial in health and education, perfectly charming in every way, whose memory will go with me through life.

PRINCE WHO LIKES HORSES.

Brother of Heir to German Crown a Rough Rider.

Eitel Frederick, prince of Prussia, and younger brother of the crown prince of Germany, is considered one of the finest horsemen of Europe. The German people love him greatly for this, along with his kindness to his animals, a quality sometimes wanting when great daring is possessed by boys.

When the prince was sixteen he was given the freedom of the royal stables and told that he could select one of the fine Arabian ponies for his own use. He asked if he could look after him just as boys in lesser stations in life do with their ponies, and his father's reply was:

"I want my boys to know how to work and care for everything that belongs to them."

Eitel did care for his pony and spent many moments learning all about the needs and nature of horses. He discovered that his Arabian could jump and, riding him one day, he cleared a four-barred fence, which greatly delighted the emperor, who was riding with him.

A short time after this his father gave him a powerful hunting horse. The boy looked like a midget on him, but would not ride him for three or four days.

"A horse needs to know you," he gravely said, "before he makes up his mind whether you will be kind and reasonable with him, or harsh."

After boy and horse had become acquainted he invited his father to take a ride in his company. The two set out for a gallop through the forests. Emperor William is regarded as a splendid horseman, but he told a circle of friends after this ride, that Eitel had given him a ride for his life. He leaped ditches and hedges, took the roughest roads, held his horse under perfect control and won the greatest praise.

It is told of this boy that he cannot go into the royal stables without every horse in the stalls turning his head and whinnying a glad welcome.

GREAT CHIEF JOSEPH.

A NOBLE AND BELOVED AMERICAN INDIAN WHO DIED OF A WOUNDED HEART.

Pathetic Tale of Government's Broken Promises. His Ancestors Welcomed Lewis and Clark in Their Western Explorations.

The most picturesque character of the western frontier passed away last year when Chief Joseph of the Nez Perces, or, as they knew him, in-mut-too-yah-lat-lat (Thunder traveling over the mountains), folded his blanket about him and passed beyond the Great Divide. The members of his tribe, all of whom were singularly devoted to him, and the privileged few of the white race who knew him intimately, believe that this great leader, perhaps the greatest Indian leader of the period, died of homesickness and heartache.

To know Chief Joseph was to have revealed to you a glimpse into a vanished past. There was a loftiness and dignity mingled with a charming naivete in his manner, and a tender pathos in his speech, that made you forget the Indian and recall the old Hebrew prophets of the days of the captivity.

ain sheep abound. It is a game paradise, with rich pastures for ponies.

It was in this valley that the grandfather of Chief Joseph welcomed the daring explorers, Lewis and Clark. Speaking of them, Joseph said: "They talked straight, and our people made them a great feast. All the Nez Perces made friends with Lewis and Clark, and agreed to let them pass through the country, and never to make war on white men. And this promise the Nez Perces have never broken. No white man can accuse them of bad faith, and speak with a straight tongue. It has always been the pride of the Nez Perces that they were the friends of the white men."

Encroachments of the White Men.

It was not to be expected that the Indian would be allowed to remain forever unmolested in the possession of this beautiful valley. When the western fever broke out, settlers came at first in small numbers, and the valley being large, all lived in peace. But it could not last. There came a day when by means of presents and fair promises a portion of the band signed a treaty dividing their lands. Joseph's father refused to sign away his birthright, and withdrew his band from the council. In 1863, another council was held. A chief, named Lawyer, with authority of a part of the tribe, sold nearly all of the Nez Perces country, including the Wallowa Valley. The latter was the particular property of Joseph's own people; its boundaries, for years, had been marked by poles, had never been disputed. The old chief said: "Inside the home of my people—the white man may take the land outside. Inside the boundary, all our people were born. It circles around the graves of our fathers, and we never give up their graves to any man."

In spite of the treaty, the Indians remained in unmolested possession for eight years, when the white men began to encroach upon the boundaries. The conditions threatened to become serious, and the Government asked for a treaty council. Joseph, owing to his father's age and blindness, represented his people. He refused to remove to the Lapwai agency in Idaho and give up the valley, so the council came to naught.

From that time on, the white settlers gave constant offense to the Indians. They stole their horses, drove off their cattle and branded the calves, and then claimed them. It speaks well for the strong hand Joseph held over his people, and for his desire for peace, that the Indians were patient so long. Finally, Joseph was notified by General through them, that he had to stop to tune up several times. Just previous to one of these a picture which was suspended at the far end of the room came tumbling down without warning. Many of the superstitious turned white with fear, but a scientific man in the room went to some length to explain that the fall of the picture had been caused by a vibration of the wire set up by a note of a particular pitch made by the 'cello. He stated that every stretched string has some particular musical pitch which will set it vibrating. To emphasize his argument he asked the performer to strike different tones and in a short time other pictures in the room were set vibrating so violently as to make the movement perceptible to the eye. The 'celloist also succeeded in setting up vibrations on a piece of glassware on the mantel, which caused it to give out a musical note.

Affected Building Foundations.

A couple of days after President Roosevelt's inauguration, last March, the whole body of Rough Riders from Minnesota called on Secretary Taft in the magnificent State, War, and Navy Building. Accompanied by their brass band of some fifty or sixty pieces they lined up before the Secretary's office and with ragtime music serenaded the Secretary. Upon arising the music the superintendent of the building at once asked the leader to refrain from playing any more in the building as there was a tendency to weaken the building's foundations. In fact, in this instance, the vibrations set forth were plainly perceptible, not only to those in the vicinity of the band but to clerks on other floors of the building.

MARKET GARDEN TYPE.

New Style of Auto Suitable for Carrying Farm Produce.

One of the first cable pictorial descriptions of the useful war automobile, as shown in the illustration, has just come to hand. This is a special farmer's type. It can be constructed in any small power, for jogging along purposes, from 30 to 120 horse. A special feature of interest to market gardeners is the ability of the wagon to run for twenty minutes after having the tires riddled with bullets, which makes it thoroughly practical. It is entirely bomb-proof when beyond the range of the enemy's guns. A "starting crank" is fitted in front, but "the machine can be started automatically from the driver's seat," where the principal crank is supposed to be located. "On the top of the rear portion of the box" the specifications read, "is a turret from which projects a Hotchkiss gun which can be trained in any direction"—upon competing market gardeners. "A special quality of steel has been employed for armor." At 300 yards lead bullets fail to pierce, but glance off, thus insuring adequate protection to loads of eggs, live shoots and other tender vegetables.

"The machine carries two steel rails, which can be quickly unshipped and placed across a ditch." This feature is of great import to the average tiller of soil, as it means that if the machine becomes frightened or unmanageable due to the sudden appearance of horsemen or the flight of birds, and jumps ditches or fences, it can be quickly gotten back into the road, and sped along

Schott and Willing did engage in duel fierce and hot. Schott shot Willing, willingly. And Willing he shot Schott. The shot Schott shot made Willing quite a spectacle to see. While Willing's willing shot went right through Schott's anatomy.

Remarkable Effect of Vibrations.

From time to time scientists advance new theories of the cause of some of the miracles mentioned in the Bible, and now the miraculous fall of the walls of Jericho is said by men of learning to have been caused by the fact that the tone pitch of the trumpets of the followers of Joshua was exactly in harmony with the sensitive points of the walls. When the trumpets were blown they set the walls of the biblical town vibrating and in a short time their foundations were so weakened that the entire mass fell to the ground.

This statement was brought out at a private social gathering the other evening in Philadelphia where music was the feature. During the course of the evening a 'cello performer was called on for so many encores of weird pieces with minor chords running

Great Chief Joseph.

In the war which followed, Joseph led his little band, as only a great general could lead them, but, the Nez Perces never had a chance to win. Joseph surrendered to General Miles, and for years the tribe was moved back and forth over the country regardless of promises made when they surrendered. After one of Joseph's visits to Washington, where he met the President, the Cabinet officers, and numerous Congressmen, he remarked: "They all say they are my friends, and that I shall have justice, but while their mouths all talk right, I do not understand why nothing is done for my people. I have heard talk and talk, but nothing is done. Words do not pay for my dead people. They do not pay for my country overrun by white men. It makes my heart sick when I remember all the good words and all the broken promises. You might as well expect the river to run backward, as that any man who was born free should be contented, when penned up and denied liberty, to go where he pleases."

Pathetic Plea for Freedom.

"Oh let me be a free man! free to travel, free to stop, free to work, free to trade where I chose, free to choose my own teachers, free to follow the religion of my fathers, free to think and talk and act for myself—and I will obey every law or submit to the penalty."

Gradually as the years passed away, Joseph grew to understand the hopelessness of achieving his heart's desire—a return to Wallowa, though he never ceased to make his plea for justice. When the end came a year ago, he was surrounded by the remnant of his band, who stood beside his deathbed in silent grief.

On the 20th of September last, these same devoted members of the tribe stood around the grave of Joseph and listened to the funeral address delivered by his successor and friend. On this occasion a monument was unveiled—a most unusual Indian ceremony.

The Lilies of the Chancel

An Easter Story

By Elizabeth Vore

From Sunset

A stretch of azure sky, changing to the opal tints of evening; a smiling expanse of sea, with a long line of curling breakers lashing the sandy beach—that is what Rosa might have seen as she stood by the calla lily hedge, with the faint breeze stirring the magnolia blossoms.

Yet it is doubtful if she saw anything. Her eyes held a dreamy far-away look, and the waving green branches outlined like lacework against the evening sky, the wind ruffled stretch of sea and the scent of the wilderness of bloom were lost upon her.

In her arms was a profusion of lilies, spray upon spray, almost more than her slender arms could carry, for the morning was Easter day. Tall and stately as a lily herself, Rosa stood, lost in meditation, her face scarcely less fair and pure than the waxen blossoms, and as colorless, save for the scarlet mouth with its haughty curves. A pure, proud face was hers, and cold as the white mist that, like a dim squadron, was stealthily marching in from the sea.

On the still, languorous air, suddenly a clear, sweet note rang out—the chimes of the old mission bells. The sacred music reached Rosa's ears, arousing her from her reverie. Disengaging one slender hand she made the sign of the cross; her lips moved silently.

There was a sound near at hand of slow, halting footsteps. A man, young, but of haggard countenance, was approaching under the shadow of the acacias.

But Rosa only heard the vesper chimes.

Nearer the man drew until he stood humbly before her, his head bared, his shabby hat in his trembling hand.

He raised his eyes, full of dumb wistfulness to her face. The passionate love and despair of a tortured soul was in them. He stood motionless, as on awaiting his sentence.

Sweet and high the chimes of the bells arose and fell. Something like a sob escaped the man's lips; his thin, brown fingers worked convulsively.

thy sake that I—" he checked himself suddenly—"and the saints alone know how hard, how unjust," he flashed out, "hath been my lot, and a man may repent, Rosa."

"I saw thee drinking in the plaza yesterday," she said coldly, "is that thy repentance?"

"It is killing me, adorado, every hand is against me. I am weak, unworthy, but I can forget in no other way."

"Thou hast come here against my command—see that thou dost not repeat it," said Rosa in icy tones. "And now go, for I would hasten to the chapel to carry my flowers for the chancel."

He raised his eyes imploringly to her face.

"Madre de Dios, I am in purgatory. Thou art so far above me—like the saints. Rosa! Rosa! I am unfit to touch thee—yet, I am going away forever. Give me one of thy lilies—only one, carita, because they are, like thou art, as pure as the angels of God."

He reached out his hand timidly, but Rosa drew back as if his touch were profanation.

"They are sacred lilies," she said, coldly. "I have none to spare. They are for the chancel—to be placed upon the altar. A thief may not touch them."

He winced and shrank away. He could not know that her hands were clenched until the nails made cruel marks in her tender palms. He only saw the stern, accusing eyes and heard the pitiless words that fell, like molten fire, and scorched themselves into his soul.

As one who had received a mortal stab, he turned and walked despondently away.

It was Easter day in the land of perpetual bloom, where winter is summer and summer is paradise. In the early morning, as the gray curtain of fog rolled back to the sea, and the sun, a disk of golden flame, bathed sea and sky in a flood of glory, Rosa wended her way to the chapel to add the last touches to the decorations for the Easter service.

the outcast, the despised, the heart-broken?

Suddenly his eyes caught the white gleam of waxen blossoms upon his breast; a great awe entered his face. "Jesu Maria," he murmured, "The lilies of the chancel."

"Nay, but thine own, Diego mio," sobbed Rosa, brokenly. Her arms were about him, her tears were upon his face. "Thine own, adorado," she whispered tremulously; "all thine—the lilies of Diego. I have robbed the altar for thy dear sake."

"This is the day of resurrection," said the Padre, solemnly.

"Madre de Christo, the people muttered. "It is a miracle."

And it was—a miracle of love.

EASTER AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

Time Honored Practice of Letting the Children of Washington Roll Eggs on President's Grounds.

Easter Monday in Washington is an event in the lives of the children which is ahead of any other day in the year excepting Christmas and Fourth of July.

Why? Because Easter Monday means egg-rolling. For many years the little ones of Washington have congregated by the hundreds and thousands to roll eggs Easter Monday in the beautiful grounds surrounding the home of the President of the nation. There is no sign to keep off the grass and there are no restrictions. The children own the place. The green grass of the White House lawns is covered with children, children innumerable, rolling eggs on the grassy slopes.

If the day is pleasant it is a sight to be remembered. The children have been looking forward to the festival for days and weeks and great has been their anticipation. But genuine is the sorrow and many the tears among the little ones if Easter Sunday should be cold and rainy with promise of a bad Monday. Yet no weather has ever been so bad as to keep everyone away from the White House grounds on egg-rolling day. There are many hardy little spirits who will not be daunted by snow or cold or rain when it comes to rolling eggs.

If the day is pleasant and the air balmy and the turf warm and green, what a time the children have. Such games as they invent to play with their eggs—games of infinite variation containing infinite amusement. The grounds look more like a juvenile fair than anything else—an egg fair and the biddy hens around Washington must needs have been very diligent for many days before. If the day is fair, too, the glorious Marine Band, the finest band in the country, plays sweet music, and the children dance and gambol to its strains. Truly it is children's day in Washington.

Wonderfully Colored Eggs.

By 9 o'clock in the morning the grounds are actually taken possession of by the youngsters, little kids with wicker baskets and vari-colored eggs, wonderful eggs of green and blue and red and purple and gold and then eggs of lovely combination, and with beautiful figures, such as would make a wise hen cock her head on one side and wonder greatly what happened to her plain white eggs.

All sorts and conditions of children find their way to the President's grounds to enjoy Easter Monday. Some of the children are beautifully dressed in silks and laces and have French furs to watch over them and carry their eggs for them, while other little ones are dressed in very shabby garments with elbows out and toes peeping from their little shoes. They perhaps have only three or four plainly colored eggs rolled in a piece of purple or red calico. No French nurses accompany them, carrying eggs with gilt pictures, but they can roll their eggs and themselves on the green grass and soil their frocks and trousers to their heart's content, and they will enjoy the holiday perhaps more than their more fortunate companions. Usually the mothers of these little men and women come with them, tired-faced women often, looking as though it had been a long day since they had enjoyed such a time. Here and there are little groups of mothers and older sisters, talking together pleasantly, but keeping watchful eyes to see that the little ones do not get lost in the crowd or stray too far away.

Not Afraid of the Policeman.

It is a good natured crowd. The big policeman standing around possess no terror for the little ones on egg-rolling day. They know that all that big policeman are for on Easter, is to keep grown up people from interfering with the little ones who are rolling eggs. And when the little people get lost now and then, the big policeman are there to take them in charge and tell them not to cry until their mothers and sisters find them again. Then there are great rivalries among the children. Some of them are regular little gamblers. One little fellow gets hold of a very hard egg and he goes around picking eggs with his acquaintances or acquaintances he finds, and wins their eggs from them until finally he strikes some other little fellow who has a harder egg than his, and then he loses a lot of eggs.

And some of the little rascals gamble on what is a "sure thing" with a china egg, sized and painted to resemble a genuine egg, or with a hen's egg run full of plaster of paris they will go around, and of course win all the eggs they contest for, until some sharp little fellow finds out the game they are playing. As the day advances and the children get hungry, the peanut man and the popcorn man and the candy man at the gates do a thriving business, while at noon, many are the little groups under the trees, sitting around on blankets and shawls and eating lunches, for they are making a regular picnic of it and staying all day.

The Children of Presidents.

President Harrison's two grand children witnessed, with great enjoyment, the egg-rolling from the porch of the White House, facing toward the Washington monument and looking past and across the Potomac to Arlington, the former home of General Lee, but where now are spread the silent tents of a vast host of the Union army who have passed across to the great beyond.

President Cleveland's two little girls, Ruth and Esther, were real little democrats. They took their own eggs and went out among the crowd of happy children, and they rolled eggs with the other children, as common clay as their associates, not the children of the President of the United States, but the children of an American citizen. Perhaps a little extra watch was kept over them, but they didn't know it and they thought that Easter Monday was the happiest day in their little lives.

The Roosevelt children are past the age of egg-rolling; but they enjoy with the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, watching the gay throng of youngsters who romp over the White House grounds on Easter Mondays.

There was a time however, when the children of Washington did not roll eggs on the President's grounds. Not that they did not roll eggs though. Oh no! They have always rolled eggs on Easter Monday. But they used to roll them in the Capitol grounds, down the steep terrace which was on the west front of the Capitol. Then there came a time when the Capitol grounds were changed, and a big flight of steps built where the terrace used to be, and some dyspeptic in Congress objected to the children romping on the smooth grass of the big sward and rolling their eggs.

General Hayes was President then, and he heard of it, and how disappointed the children were because they had no place to roll their eggs that year, and the kindly man said: "Why let them roll their eggs on the White House grounds and enjoy themselves." And thus it has been ever since, from year to year.

BRAVED DEATH VALLEY.

Nevada Woman Penetrated Fastness for Wealth—Was Accompanied by Only Half Breed.

The weird Funeral Mountain of Death Valley, Nevada, are to yield rich offerings of copper and gold ores as a result of the successful prospecting of Miss Lillian Malcolm, who it is stated, discovered these deposits on a ridge that towers three thousand feet in the air. In making this find she was accompanied only by an Indian half-breed.

Once Lillian Malcolm, according to her story, crossed the Chilcoot in Alaska, alone, in her search for gold. The railroad had not been built that has since minimized the difficulties of Alaskan travel in the Chilcoot region. Miss Malcolm declares that the tour of the Funeral Mountains however was more hazardous than her lonely journey through the Chilcoot, years ago.

"No white person has ever visited the spot where I viewed the great copper deposit until I made my way there," she said in a recent interview. "I have never before seen such ruggedness in mountains as the Funeral Range presents. To climb up almost perpendicular grades means to slide down others before the objective point can be reached. I have been a prospector for ten years and have passed much of my time in the mountains of Alaska, Colorado and other places where there is gold. The Funeral Range is the worst of any. I made up my mind that I would search for gold and copper in the foothills of the Funeral Mountains. I was compelled to cross the range to get where I wished to go, and although I had no fear, there were minutes when, in climbing, I did not dare to look back, but only kept right on."

"There were many places where a misstep meant sure death. All there was to do was to go head. Once started, there was no way to stop without confessing defeat. Finally I found what I was looking for. At first I could hardly believe my eyes. I had reached a point about twenty-five miles from the line of the Clark road and sixteen miles from the line of the Borax Smith road, when the ledge loomed up immensely."

"Then I was happy. I have studied mineralogy, geology, and other lines leading to mining, and I have done assessment work with my own hands in deep shafts. In short, my experience has been such that I believe that I am competent to know whether my mineral discoveries are valuable."

"The ledge stands up clearly from fifty to seventy-five feet, with both gold and copper in it—but more copper than gold. Millions maybe there in easy reach—a quantity that I believe is almost beyond ordinary computation. If I am not mistaken the discovery is valuable not only for its richness but also because it opens up knowledge of an entirely new copper belt in the Death Valley."

Picturesqueness is added to Miss Malcolm's trip by the fact that the Indian half-breed that she took into the desert where so many strong men have died is "Bill Kee," who is "Scotty's" friend. This Indian is a good guide.

The next step that Lillian Malcolm contemplates is that of informing the railroad builders, now constructing lines into the mineralized regions of Nevada, of the topographical features of the country to be crossed in order to bring her copper and gold discoveries reasonably within transportation facilities, and the place that formerly required weeks for her to reach, will soon be made accessible, when the present railroading surveys are carried out in rails. There is plenty of timber in the Panamint Mountains that can be utilized for mining purposes, and the foot of the steam whistle may yet be heard in the fearful fastnesses of desolation that have so long appalled stout-hearted man, only to be conquered finally by a woman in search of precious metals.

POMPEII, THE VALIANT.

Story of the Hero of a Hundred Bad Runaways.

Pompeii, of the New York mounted police squad, and one of the most intelligent members of the force, was retired from active service the other day. When the stroke of the auctioneer's hammer put the big bay out of service, he was saved from the ragman's cart and night hawk cab by the devotion of his fifteen-year friend and comrade, Mounted Policeman Redmond P. Kersey, of the West 152d street police station.

Pompeii had spent nearly twenty years in the service and knew the rules of the department better than many a roundsman. He was the show horse of the force. Catching runaways was his business, but mathematics was his diversion. He could add, subtract, divide and multiply, and for years had been a source of delight to the school children along Seventh Avenue, where he was on duty between 110th and 152d streets.

The children would gather around Pompeii in the afternoons and talk to him.

Good at Mental Arithmetic.

When a sum in arithmetic was given him Pompeii would listen attentively to the figures, ponder over them for a moment, and then announce the answer by striking the ground with his left forefoot. If the answer was one half of something Pompeii indicated it by bending his foreleg at the knee and holding it for a moment. His friends insist that he could tell time by looking at a watch and announce the hour and half hour in the same way as he did his sums.

Playing with the children was by no means the best part of Pompeii's service. The records show that he and his master have stopped more than a hundred runaways in the last fifteen years. In several instances lives were saved. Policemen Kersey and Pompeii have been almost inseparable ever since the latter joined the force. Again and again the comrades were parted for a short time when Kersey was transferred from one precinct to another, but each time the policeman managed to have his favorite sent after him.

Hurt While Stopping Runaway.

A short time before the arrival of Prince Henry in New York, Pompeii was badly hurt while stopping a runaway at Seventh Avenue and 125th street. Two days later, while acting as a guide for the Prince some dirt got in the wound and blood poisoning set in. Kersey managed to get placed on reserve duty and gave all his time to nursing Pompeii back to health. The police veterinary condemned the horse as unfit for duty, but Kersey managed to evade the decision for a few days. Then Pompeii made a spectacular run along the avenue and stopped a bad runaway in such style that nothing more was said about retirement.

The fatal day was only put off, however, and last month the big bay was sold at auction at the stables of the West 152d street station. Kersey was on hand with $400, all the ready money he could scrape together, determined not to be separated from his old friend.

Hurt While Stopping Runaway.

Kersey himself bears some scars gained in the fierce rushes he has made with Pompeii. Five years ago his right leg was broken in two places, and two years ago his neck was wrenched and his skull nearly smashed in. Both injuries were received while with Pompeii's aid he was stopping dangerous runaways.

Only one man had the heart to bid against Kersey so he ransomed his old friend for $50, about twice what he was worth said the veterinary.

Then Kersey started on a vacation. When last heard from he was spending it on a bit of a farm he has at Rye, N. Y., and with him went Pompeii, happy in his last transfer.

The flower "pink" was not named after the color, but because its edges were "pinked" or punctured.

Lily growing on the Bermuda Islands is an exceedingly profitable industry. Practically all the land available for the production of bulbs is utilized for this purpose, and while the rotation of crops, together with the most ap-ment of Agriculture in obtaining blooming plants in so short a time after planting the seed would probably seem like a fairy tale to the participants of the Lily conference held in London in 1991. One of the papers read at that time states that many species of Lilium must have from ten to twelve

May will be a good time to walk rapidly through the orchard and rub off the new shoots, or water sprouts, on the trunks of the trees. If much pruning has been done these will be found in abundance. When soft and green, as they are during this month, they can be easily removed, pulled out by the roots, as it were, whereas later they will have to be cut off, causing a liability to sprout again.

For the best results fruit and other trees should be cultivated early and often during the spring and early summer, as that is the time when most growth is made. When the fruit is small there is plenty of sap for vigorous wood growth, but after the fruit approaches maturity the wood growth decreases.

Trees should also be dug around from time to time if rapid growth is desired. A tree can grow up in sod and practically stand still or by the use of manure and cultivation it can be made to grow as fast as desired. The sod method is frequently followed by the man who has no time to spend on the convenience and appearance of his place.

As the warmth of spring approaches the system craves some fresh acid, and nothing is more grateful than rhubarb. A most satisfactory practice is to cover a couple of thrifty stools of rhubarb with an old half-barrel, inverted, and pile around it green manure. This will force it into quick growth.

Very sandy soils are more apt to show a beneficial effect than heavy soils from plowing under green crops as compared with applications of fertilizers or manures, for the reason that in such soils fertilizer or manure leaches quickly away, whereas the humus afforded by the green crop is more entirely retained, itself adding to the body of the soil. Sandy soils, too, are nearly all deficient in vegetable mold, and green manure is the easiest and cheapest method of supplying this factor.

In order to obtain these results, it is necessary that the farm lad be fitted for the work as thoroughly as persons are fitted for other professions. He must study agriculture as one who is to become a physician studies medicine, or the one who is to be an attorney studies law. He must not only know how to do all things, but he must also know why the things are done. He must know the effect upon the soil of different methods of culture and the effect upon animals of various systems of feeding. He must know a thousand things unknown to his ancestors a generation or two ago, and he must—and still then will he be in a position to practice farming as intelligently and as successfully as the physician practices medicine or the attorney practices law.

It requires time, hard study and some money to acquire this knowledge, but not so much as is required to prepare a man to manipulate and produce a yielding good return. There is no study necessary for the laborer who uses pick and shovel at a dollar and a half a day, but preparation is necessary for him who earns three or four times that amount in any line of work. There is no preparation necessary for the farmer who is content to harvest what the soil produces of its own accord, but preparation is necessary for the farmer who produces three or four times the average yield of the soil. The man who manipulates the soil and directs the elements of nature in an intelligent manner in the production of that crop is an almost greater factor than the soil itself. Father and mothers who desire their boys to become or remain farmers should encourage them to make the requisite preparation for their life work and then there will be fewer abandoned farms and fewer discouraged and disheartened farmers.

He said it in all innocence. It was at a nice, homelike little party the other evening, and Gabley had just told his time-worn story. "Oh, strangle it," called out Jonathan Happlegood in his sonorous voice, which made everybody look. "That story is more ancient and rock-ribbed than the hills."

Then the three spinster Hill sisters of uncertain ages got up and stalked stiffly out of the room with that set, hard expression which is akin to the "automobile face."

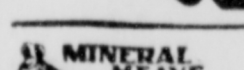

"Hello," said the Pipe to the Black Cigar.
In the Smokers' grand parade,
"I see you march with the Cigarettes
Instead of your own brigade."
The Black Cigar moved down the line, Ashamed as he could be,
And simply said, with deep-bowed head;
"I've joined the 'ranks,' you see."

He was a young and smart-looking Scots clergyman, and was to preach a "trial" sermon in a strange church. Fearing that his hair might be disarranged or that he might have a smudge on his face, he quietly and significantly said to the beadle, there being no mirror in the vestry:

"John, could you get me a glass?" John disappeared, and after a few minutes returned with something under his coat, which, to the astonishment of the divine, he produced in the form of a bottle with a gill of whisky in it, saying:

"Ye mauna let on about it, meenister, for I got it as a special favor, and I wadna hae got it if I hadna told them it was for you."

He stood in the hall at midnight,
But the clock was not striking the hour,
For his careful touch had stilled it,
Ere the storm had time to lower.
He said, as the stairs he climbed softly,
"A hero of labor I'm like—
For surely this night I've averted
A most disastrous strike."

As a result of all these conditions the bulbs marketed by Bermuda have become impregnated with disease, so that, at the present time it is almost impossible to secure a bulb or plant which does not show some trace of disease.

The American Method. Investigations made by the Department of Agriculture have shown that by the use of seeds instead of scales, larger bulbs can be secured in a much shorter time than can be produced by the scale method. Moreover, it has been demonstrated that in this way years to develop a flowering bulb from the seed. A noted scientist who was believed to be an authority on lily raising, stated that "In three or four years at the most, flowering bulbs will be produced from seed if the young plants are properly treated." While the experiments of the Department of Agriculture have shown that some seedlings are longer than others in coming into bloom, yet when these do flower, they reward all the cultivator's labor by producing a great amount of flowers—instances being known of plants with from ten to fourteen flowers at one time.

Hybrid Philippine Lily.

The Bureau of Plant Industry of the Department of Agriculture last year took up the problem of shortening the time of growing, as any shortening in the time of growth represents so much gain to the cultivator. With this in view the Department imported a species of lily from the Philippines which was known to bear flowers in from two to three months after planting of the bulb. This lily has been crossed with the common Easter lily, and the result has been a hybrid bearing as many flowers as the old Bermuda lily, with no difference in appearance from this plant, except that the hybrid will develop in four or five months, representing a shortening in time of from one to three months. While the experiments of the Department are not yet completed, the results attained so far warrant the belief that the new hybrid Easter lily can be produced cheaper than the old variety which blooms not less than from six to eight months after planting of the bulb.

Men's Trials.

See a pin and pick it up—and you can bet your wife'll ask you for it before you get a chance to use it.

THE PHILIPPINE LILY.

Planting overgrown nursery stock because it can be secured cheaper than young stock is a serious mistake. In the first place the handling is much greater, and, again, such trees will never make the sturdy and vigorous growth of the younger ones. To use them at any price is poor economy.
